COOK COUNTY LAND BANK AUTHORITY

Founded 2013

Brian White, Executive Director

Metropolitan Planning Council

BACKGROUND

CCLBA was formed by ordinance of Cook County in 2013 to address the large inventory of vacant residential, industrial and commercial property in Cook County. CCLBA is a unit of Cook County government, funded primarily with grants, contributions and revenues from transactions. CCLBA is the largest land bank by geography in the country and is governed by a Board of Directors appointed by Cook County President Toni Preckwinkle and the Cook County Board of Commissioners.

MISSION

The Land Bank will acquire, hold, and transfer interest in real property throughout Cook County to: promote redevelopment and reuse of vacant, abandoned, foreclosed or taxdelinquent properties; support targeted efforts to stabilize neighborhoods; stimulate residential, commercial and industrial development- all in ways that are consistent with goals and priorities established by local government partners and other community stakeholders.

HOW

Working independently and with/by request of municipal and other partners, CCLBA will acquire properties, liens, notes or deeds through purchase, donation, forfeiture and other transfers. CCLBA will hold title and maintain properties tax free. CCLBA will extinguish delinquent taxes and liens as permitted by law, and, in some cases, demolish/deconstruct buildings, with the intent of preparing property for conveyance back to "the market" or to other uses. CCLBA will also lease/adopt interim uses for properties as necessary and appropriate.

CCLBA PRINCIPLES

- Operate in a manner consistent with plans and priorities developed by local and municipal officials, other municipal bodies and community stakeholders;
- Establish an efficient property disposition process for transferring properties to responsible parties, who will return them to productive use in a timely manner and consistent with the mission;
- ✓ To the extent possible, strive to increase affordable housing, generate jobs, promote economic development, and promote sustainable communities.

SSLBDA GENERAL INFORMATION July 2014

Mission Statement: The South Suburban Land Bank and Development Authority will facilitate the redevelopment of acquired properties through strategic partnerships with developers, community organizations, lenders, and local governments to improve quality of life, stabilize the tax base, and enhance economic activities that promote sustainable, healthy, and stable communities in a manner consistent with local government plans and priorities.

The SSLBDA was formed in late 2012 with an intergovernmental agreement passed by the Village of Park Forest, the City of Oak Forest and the City of Blue Island. In addition to the founding members, the Land Bank now also includes Richton Park, Sauk Village, Midlothian, Hazel Crest, Phoenix, Summit, Dolton, Joliet, and Steger. Eventually, all Southland municipalities will be invited to become members of the SSLBDA. The SSLBDA is able to work in both Cook and Will County. Land banks exist as a regional economic development tool for municipalities with limited manpower and financial resources to legally hold, manage and develop vacant, tax or bank foreclosed properties and put them back into productive use. Land Banks are able to acquire and sell properties more quickly and efficiently than the typical municipal process. Additionally, due to its agency status, the SSLBDA can help to clear back taxes and hold properties tax exempt to facilitate a sale or the redevelopment of a property. The SSLBDA is also able to accept donations of property and funding.

The South Suburban Land Bank was made possible by a HUD Sustainable Communities Grant awarded to the South Suburban Mayors and Managers Association (SSMMA). The SSMMA helped establish and provides ongoing technical and operational assistance for the SSLBDA. The SSMMA is an intergovernmental agency providing technical assistance and joint services to 42 municipalities representing a population over 650,000 in Cook and Will Counties. The SSLBDA has also been awarded funding from the Illinois Attorney General's Foreclosure Settlement, the Illinois Housing Development Authority, and from the JP Morgan Chase Foundation.

For more information about the South Suburban Land Bank and Development Authority, please contact our executive director, Russell Rydin, at russellrydin@sslbda.org or (708) 381-0871. Also, please visit our website at www.SSLBDA.org.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Brent Denzin, Legal Counsel, Ancel Glink

What powers do the land banks have with regard to tax abatement?

Like other government entities, Land Banks hold property tax exempt after the date of acquisition. With regard to back taxes, both land banks have the authority to abate taxes if the property is acquired through one of the methods identified in Section 21-95 of the Illinois Property Tax Code, 35 ILCS 200/21-95. Such methods include, but are not limited to: foreclosure of a municipal lien, deed in lieu of foreclosure and no-cash bids. Land banks do not currently have statutory authority to abate back taxes for properties acquired by purchase or donation.

Can the Cook County Land Bank (CCLB) and the South Suburban Land Bank and Development Authority (SSLBDA) use eminent domain?

The land banks will not independently exercise eminent domain powers. Both land banks may participate in Cook County or other municipal projects that involves the use of those governments' eminent domain powers through an intergovernmental agreement.

How does the market inform acquisition practices for each of the land banks?

Given limited funding, both land banks must factor in the net financial impact of acquisition, holding, and disposition when considering any acquisition. Both land banks have a mission to assist in neighborhood stabilization and economic development efforts, whether or not the individual project is profitable. However, both land banks need to be self-sustaining in the current and future housing and development markets.

Cic

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Brent Denzin, Legal Counsel, Ancel Glink

Do the land banks subsidize transactions with their own funding?

Within their budgetary and statutory limits, the land banks have authority to structure transactions in any way necessary to accomplish their goals. Both Land Banks will review transactions on a case-by-case basis and evaluate the overall benefit of the project against the risks and costs involved.

Will the structure and legislation for each of the land banks evolve in the future?

In other states, land banks are supported by enabling statutes that provide specialized authority to fast track foreclosure donations, abate back taxes and accomplish the common goals of neighborhood stabilization and economic development. Currently, The Cook County Land Bank Authority (CCLBA) and The South Suburban Land Bank and Development Authority (SSLBDA) operate with the powers given by statute to their host entities (i.e. Cook County for CCLBA; home rule municipal members for SSLBDA). If Illinois adopted comprehensive land banking legislation, both Land Banks could likely expand their ability to abate taxes, stabilize the housing market and facilitate redevelopment efforts in Cook County.

How are the land banks helping Cook County's foreclosure crisis?

Metropolitan Planning Council

Both of the land banks focus on land acquisition, holding and disposition and do not intervene in private mortgage loans, foreclosure of those loans or other housing policy matters. However, to minimize the impact that foreclosures have on the community and regional housing market, the land banks are working with financial institutions and banks to acquire foreclosed properties, minimize deterioration, and reintroduce the properties back into the markets.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Brent Denzin, Legal Counsel, Ancel Glink

With regard to land and property acquisition, the powers and processes are similar for land banks and municipalities. What about disposition/sale of land and property? The Cook County Land Bank Authority (CCLBA) and South Suburban Land Bank and Development Authority are (SSBLDA) creations of Cook County and municipal home rule governments, respectively. Therefore, until comprehensive, statewide land banking legislation is passed, the Land Banks are limited by their host entity's legal authority. CCLBA must comply with Cook County requirements for land disposition. SSLBDA has home rule municipal members that serve as host communities when selling, transferring or otherwise disposing of SSLBDA properties.

Can the land banks pursue abandonment?

Yes. The Land Banks have the same authority as their host entities (i.e. Cook County for CCLBA; home rule municipal members for SSLBDA) to pursue demolition or abandonment. For many reasons, both land banks will work with the local municipality whenever seeking demolition or abandonment orders under Illinois law. Given that SSLBDA is an intergovernmental municipal agency and CCLBA is a county entity, the process for pursuing abandonment or demolition will differ slightly between the two land banks.

How does SSLBA and CCLBA work with local municipalities? Is an intergovernmental agreement required? What about other local government entities, like the housing authority or the park district?

Whenever acquiring, holding or disposing of property, both land banks will work with the local municipality to ensure the land bank's work is consistent with the local land use vision. In some cases, the cooperation will take the form of a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) which guides the Land Banks' work. In other circumstances, such a joint projects or endeavors, an intergovernmental agreement would be appropriate.

This afternoon, Smart Chicago Collaborative will present at the Cook County Land Bank Workshop at the Union League Club, hosted by the Metropolitan Planning Council. The workshop will help attendees understand how to work with the land bank to either buy or donate properties. Smart Chicago will present on how to locate information about properties. We've outlined our presentation on our website that's complete with a video demo.

If you want to buy, donate, or simply inquire about a property - there are many different sites that you'll need to check in order to get a complete picture. The best way to explain this is to go through the process of researching one specific address. Let's take a single family home like 7611 S Eggleston in Chicago. We've put together a video demoing all the sites we're going over below.

The first thing we need to do is to find the Property Information Number of PIN. While the address and property details may change when we're looking (because this stuff gets messy) - the PIN will always be the same. To find our PIN, we need to go to the Cook County Property Tax information website. (http://www.cookcountypropertyinfo.com/Pages/PIN-Search.aspx) . For the Eggleston property, our PIN is 20-28-313-004-0000. We'll be referencing this number a lot so write this number down or print out the page. The page also shows the assessed value of the property (about 10% of market value) and some details about the property. The first thing you should do is to make sure that the property you're thinking of is actually the property listed. Occasionally, addresses change and the data you're looking at might be incorrect. But if it looks like the house we want, we'll keep going.

To get a much more detailed picture of the property we need to click the CookViewer link. CookViewer will let you look up any property by PIN number. We can also search for comparable properties as well as see what's around it.

Back on the Property Tax Information Portal - we're going to want to check out the tax information towards the bottom of the page. If you want to buy a property, the taxes have to be cleared on it first. To find out if there are delinquent taxes, you'll need to visit the County Clerk's website.

(http://www.cookcountyclerk.com/tsd/delinquenttaxsearch/Pages/DelinquentTaxS earch.aspx) For this example, we see that there are multiple tax bills due. We'll need to add these into the cost.

The other rather odd thing about delinquent property tax is you can actually purchase the tax debt. When you do this, you place a lien on the property. When somebody wants to buy it - you can sell it for 18% interest. (You can see a list of registered buyer here). To find out who has the tax bill, you can go back to the Property Tax Information Page and look at their address here.

The other section of information that's important to look at is the recent activity in the documents section. This is where you can see what's legally going on with the property. In this case, we see that this went through some sort of court function. To get more details we need to go to the Cook County Recorder of Deeds Website. Again, we'll need to use the PIN to look up the property we're interested.

Now to see the individual documents, we need to click the document number. (Make sure your pop-up blocker is off.) You can now see the entire legal history of that property. If you want to print out the docs, you'll need to pay the Recorder of Deeds. In this case, we see that the last action was that the court ordered the owner to clear out the junk.

It sounds like this property has a building violation. We can search that by looking at the City of Chicago's Building Violation lookup tool. It's important to check this site because if the City thinks the building is too dangerous, they'll demolish it. And good thing we looked, because this building was in demolition court. Since the case shows "cleared" it looks like this property is safe..for now.

Thus far, we've determined who owns the building...the condition of the building...and what it might cost to obtain the building. Next, we're going to go a little deeper in exploring the neighborhood. You can do this in a few ways:

The first is by going back to the Cook County Viewer. By clicking the "Base Map" you'll get a better idea about roads and rail lines are nearby. You can also look up the City of Chicago zoning map which can help with finding where the parks, schools, and commercial districts are.

There's another site, Secondcityzoning.org, which is based on this zoning information provided by the city. We'll put in the address which will zoom us into the area we want to see. Each zone is colored a different shade, but if we click on the zone we're interested in the site will tell us what it is. For example, the blue area along Vincennes Avenue is a commercial district.

Another useful tool for discovering what's around a property is Redfin. Simply enter in the address and it will tell you additional details about the property. For example, this house caught on fire once. (So it will definitely need rehabilitation.)

But, it'll also tell you what homes are selling for around that area to help you get a better idea of what a refurbished house would go for. This will give you a good idea if the property is a good investment.
